Senator Culberson, of Texas, looked askance at the provision of the bill which increased the limit of national bank circulation to be retired in any month from Fifteen Thousand Dollars Appropri-$3,000,000 to $9,000,000.

Mr. Aldrich explained the conditions that influenced the committee to repor the bill in the form it did. It was felt he said, that only a very simple remedy could be passed at this short session. He criticised the proposed amendment of Mr. Nelson to permit the lending of public funds on approved securities at par, and directed attention to the fact that all of sented from 1843 to 1853 by the late Presithe securities enumerated, except the government bonds, were now below par. The Senator from Rhode Island objected to accepting as securities for government deposits the approved stocks or bends the securities acceptable for government deposits. Mr. Aldrich declared that Mr. Nelson's proposed depository plan would shut out most of the country banks, and concentrate the government deposits in New York and Chicago because the counin other securities while they fluctuated as now.
